1. Timewaster

My dearest loving wife,

I started to write down these words, while on the launching pad. It was thrilling to feel the time swirling around me and I was not that scared, as I am now.

These words are becoming my last grip on reality. I fear all is not going to plan and it is becoming difficult to discern dreams from reality.

Time it would appear, can only fold within the mind; where yesterday can be as clear as yesteryear. The pain of seeing and feeling your ghostly presence from the ether of space and re-living every moment is torturous,

I try to make sense of what brought me here:

From the earliest of memories, I had a burning inner drive to explore the concepts of time and space. This passion and obsession grew over the years enough to concern my conservative parents that it was an unhealthy pursuit. They worried that my educational ambitions were driven too much towards theoretical physics and that I should pursue more stable, pragmatic, profitable and guaranteed career in Law or Medicine. I should stop wasting my time on unachievable dreams that could only disappoint and result in a harsh a bitter end. But I had no interest in wealth or social status.

Intro
Time after time
You said that I'm Just wasting time

Verse I
You were never a believer
In my scientists' affairs
And you always said I'd never
Be someone or ever go somewhere

Verse II
You have always looked so worried
You have always seemed so scared
You have always been so horrid
Warned me from my harsh and bitter end

Chorus
Yes I know my time gets wasted
Is it a crime?
Is it a crime?

Why's this so bad?
Is it wrong to load the bases
If I you'll hit a home run at the end

Verse III
Please don't say that I am reckless
Please don't tell me it's a crime
Stealing hours, minuets, seconds
Taking all these moments, wasting time

Verse IV
I won't say that I'm not worried
I won't say I'm not afraid
I won't sell you bedtime stories
Life don't always has a happy end

Chorus
Yes I know my time gets wasted
Is it a crime?
Why's this so bad?

The Journal – initial ramblings. Very much work in progress.

Is it wrong to load the bases
If I you'll hit a home run at the end

Bridge
I don't care for fancy places
They are such a waste of time
One can not serve only aces
One must make himself a little time
One must make himself
A little time

Verse V
Please don't say that I am selfish
It's my perfect little crime
Stealing hours, minuets, seconds
Making all these moments truly mine

Chorus
Yes I know my time gets wasted
Is it a crime?
Why's this so bad?
Is it wrong to load the bases
If you'll hit a home run at the end

2. 20 Seconds

Bowing to the pressure and threat that my education would only be financed if it was a viable pursuit. I began my degree in Law. It was a drag and a bore, and the only true value it brought me was meeting you.

It was love at first sight for us both A love that seemed inevitable that had been destined to happen. I vividly recall that Sunny summer day and the glint in your eyes; as I discussed ideas of time and space. And how you asked if I could stay, and how you set my heart in flame

I remember being told
Time is cradle of the world
How it all began with blast
How we're all but cosmic dust

Verse II

I remember me and mom
And vacations in the farm
I remember me and dad
Building castles in the sand

Chorus

I remember Truly do
How I set my eyes on you
Wrapped in childish
Scarf and gloves
And 20 seconds later
It was love

Verse III

I remember you and me
Swimming naked in the sea
I remember pushes, shoves
When we danced in all those clubs

Verse IV

Yes I vividly recall
Sunny summers windy falls

Having fun just all the same
When the cold, cold winters came

Bridge

I remember long ago
Smoking chimneys, misty glow
Chilly nights and falling snow
And a sprig of mistletoe
I remember frosty hoar
How you opened up the door
And your father earnest stare
As I walked with you up stairs

Chorus

I remember to this day
How you asked if I could stay
How you set my heart on flames
How I knew you felt the same
And 20 seconds later
We made love

Chorus

I remember to this day
How you begged of me to stay
How I said I won't be long
How I switched those switches on
And 20 seconds later
I was gone

20 decades Part us
Time goes on

3. Time is Fine

There was a time, once we had settled down that I believed time was fine, and that keeping a low profile and low expectations would suit me and I could pass happily along.

Verse I

Not everybody's story
Is tale of great renown
Not all can wear a crown
Sometimes no point in dreaming
Some say time isn't gracious
But I say time is fine

Verse II

My old folks always dreamed that
I'll turn up so immense
I'll grow to be astounding
They never gave a chance
For me to find my passion
My burning inner drive
No wonder I am shallow
I had no time to thrive

Chorus

Times are not always perfect
And sometimes times are cruel
Some days you'll end up heaving
While others make you droll
So it's ok to bitch some
And sometimes even whine
But overall be grateful
Since, frankly, times are fine

Verse III

That's why I am not keeping
A grudge against the world
I've learned revenge best served when Refrigerated cold
I've learned it serves me better
To be a friendly chap
This way I get no hard time
And take nobody's crap

Verse IV

I keep my goals in reason
I never rise the bar
Too high for me to reach to
I wish upon no star
I know I'm no one's lighthouse
I have no urge to shine
I'm grey and dull but feel that
My times are passing fine

Chorus

Times are not always perfect
And sometimes times are rough
Some days can be just crappy
The goings can get tough
So it's ok to bitch some
And sometimes even whine
But overall I'm grateful
I'm saying, time is fine

4. The Draft

A chance encounter in an odd Government advertisement that read “There is no better time than the alternative present, joins us in visiting the past to change the tomorrow”. Sparked my interest in changing life’s direction, how I now know I had got it wrong.

Verse I

In the first day of recruiting
At "The Time Trip School of Art"
There's a test the newbies go through
It's the hardest one, no doubt

Verse II

In that test there's just one question
Which you better not get wrong
If you fail to answer, darling
Say goodbye, you're out and gone

Chorus

And that question goes as follows
Listen well and please be quick
You have little time to answer while you hear the time clock ticks
"If you'd met with baby Hitler
Knowing what his future'd be
Would you kill the little baby
Or would you just set him free?"

Verse III

No one knows who wrote that poser
But there is no doubt in me
He was one shit crazy bastard
And as smart as one can be

Verse IV

There's a reason why I'm saying
That this riddle is so tough
Is because that once you've solved it
They release you from their draft

Chorus

cause you see my friend there's really
No solution to this quiz
You can't kill the baby Hitler
Yet you must not let him live
Hell, the only thing you should say
When the choices are proposed
To this question I won't answer
Both these options I oppose

Bridge

It's this kind of situation
In which one could never win
Kill the baby really means that
You can't kill him to begin
If you kill that seed of evil
Time continuum will cease
Since you'd never kill that baby
Have he not done what he did

Verse V

And that thing just makes me crazy
All that time loop paradox
If one can't change past for better
Travel time is but a hoax

Ending Chorus

In the first day of recruiting
At "The Time Trip School of Art"
There's a test all newbies go through
It's the hardest one, no doubt
In that test there's just one question
Which I answered right headlong
I became a "Traveling agent"
How I'd wish I've got it wrong

5. Every Day I Die

Do you recall those desperate times that I felt so low in the tedium and repetition that left me bewildered and lost. I deeply felt and desperately needed to find a greater meaning to life to find my passion and not to feel so cast aside.

Verse I

Early morning, a cup of tea
Sunny skies I still can't see
My Life's all packed in a cardboard box
A total shock and no hallway talks

Verse II

All around me long-faced friends
We all share the same bitter end
Good hard workers that can barely stand
Been hammered down to no amend

Chorus

And I fear I'll never see
Yet another tide
Life is not a turning wheel
If you're cast aside
I just need to find my breath
Heaven knows I tried
But I wake in fear each night
Every day I die

Verse III

All those human working bees
All these cubic office hives
Everyone just say I should Take it calm, that I'll survive

Bridge

But I really followed through
And I know what fate devise Grasping air, that's all I do
While I wait the long cold dive

Chorus

And I fear I'll never see
Yet another tide
Life is not a turning wheel
When you're cast aside
I just need to find my breath
Heaven knows I tried
Breaking into tears each night
Every day I die

Ending Chorus

As the sun is setting fast
Spreading darkness veil
I can't find escaping route
From these depths of hell
Maybe I just played it wrong
Don't know how or why
I will never end up dead
Every day

6. Time Machine

But it wasn't to be that easy. The agency's belief was that to change anything in the past would cause a time loop and disable time from moving forward from the point of where it was changed. Time travel was only to be used as a first-hand witness to avoid repeating the same mistakes from the past and in doing so create a better future.

The past events meant that the present could only be what it is, and to change the past from the present would mean that the past event would always have to exist or there would be no present to change it.

Changing the past would therefore cause a time loop and there would be no future as time would have to continue to repeat itself up to the moment it was changed.

This however was only a theory and I believed it could be, and had to be, disproven. I could bend the arc of time, fold it in and make it mine, I know everyone would change their world if they could.

Verse 1

I will bend the arc of time
Fold it in and make it mine
I will build a time machine
With tech that is pure
Clean and green

I'll control the flow of time itself
it will bow to me
And yield
Everybody wants to rule their world.

Chorus 1

Everybody wants to have
A time machine
To re-write a story
Long been told
(or not yet told)
Everybody wants the time to stop
And freeze

Everybody wants to change their world
(To change the world)
Everybody wants to change their world
Everybody wants to change their world
(To change the world)
Everybody wants to change their world

Verse 2

I will make myself
A time machine
I will plan it
And create
I will surf the mighty waves
Of time
I will surf the tides
Of fate

Chorus 2

Everybody wants to have
A time machine
To re-write a story
Long been told
(or not yet told)
Everybody knows the time won't heal
A thing
Everybody wants to change their world
(To change the world)
Everybody wants to change their world
Everybody wants to change their world
(To change the world)
Everybody wants to change their world

Bridge

The Journal – initial ramblings. Very much work in progress.

All the secrets
I was sworn to keep
I must blurt out
And reveal
All the blueprints
I must bluntly snitch
All the prototypes I'll steal

Chorus 3
Everybody wants to have
A time machine
To re-write a story
Long been told
(or not yet told)
Everybody knows the time won't heal
A thing
Everybody wants to change their world
(To rule the world)
Everybody wants to change their world

Everybody wants to change their world
(To rule the world)
Everybody wants to change their world

Outro
Everybody wants to have
A time machine
To re-write a story
Not yet told
(oh not yet told)
Everybody fears the pains the time
Will bring
Everybody wants to change their world
(To rule the world)
Everybody wants to change their world
Everybody wants to change their world
(To rule the world)
Everybody wants to rule their world

The Journal – initial ramblings. Very much work in progress.

7. Solace in Solstice

The day that sparked the change was a routine day with a routine task to retrieve some old files from the archive store. And in that file, I stumble across a piece of paper that was mis-filed or hidden, containing a formula to break the time loop continuum.

I beg for your forgiveness now for I believed then that this was my fate and destiny calling.

So then armed with a plausible formula and linked to gravitational pulls of the sun and moon you and I were resolved to build our time machine.

Our move to that remote desert ghost town far from any chance of any intervention or discovery, was the last chance we had together and how I now treasure those peaceful and hopeful moments as we waited for the light to turn.

verse 1:

Far from all the hustle
Far from all the fuss
We build our hopes and trust
For a better future, a better past
Out in the lonely dessert dust

Chorus:

verse 2:

In the farthest southern sun
The darkness never comes down
It's the longest days as we sit around
Waiting for the light to turn

Chorus:

verse 3:

The endless summer sunshine
Powers the dream machine
Completed through the solstice peak
At the time stop ticks

On the solar eclipse

Verse 4:

In the distant horizon
A dark silhouette appears
His white haired head
Haloing in the sun's reflection
It draws towards our direction

chorus:

Our solace in solstice
The solar rays are high
Powering our dreams
Before I take to the sky
Time is of no matter
Let it slip by
Our peace in the sand
Treasured moments
That slip through our hands

8. Mr White

Mr white has no narrated introduction if the story is told in the first person.

Mr White knows he's right
To intervene before your flight

To control the flow of time
He needs to control the history line
You cannot change the past
You cannot make the first the last
There is an order to the universe
And the order will be his

This time daemon
Will be scheming
To control all your dreaming

He cannot exist
If you persist
On changing the time events

What is here now can only be
From what the past has sent

He takes delight without reveal his R - eversible
A - dversible
B- eyond
B - oundaries
I - mmersed
i - n
T – ime

- Machine

Out of the dessert he comes
From his time and his space he roams
He has no home but for you
He has a RABBliT hole

9. Rabbit Hole

Mr White, we thought of as a god-send, correcting the doubts we had in our machine build. He in turn presented us with his own machine, but warned it had a price, but one we thought might be worth paying.

Verse I

If you have a dream
If you have a goal
You can come with me
To the rabbit hole
If you want to learn
And to know it all
Then you better crawl
Down the rabbit hole

Chorus

If you'll take a bite
From my bait, you might
Come with me Tonight
Through the rabbit hole
If you'll bite my bait
You could have it all
Now come down with me
Through the rabbit hole

Verse II

Come and take my hand
Careful you might roll
All the way deep down
Down the rabbit hole
Let me guide you through
I won't let you fall
I won't let you leave
You can beg and crawl

Chorus

If you'll take a bite
From my bait, you might
Come with me Tonight
Through the rabbit hole
If you'll bite my bait
You could have it all
Now come down with me
Through the rabbit hole

Bridge

I won't charge you much
For this trip my doll
Maybe just your life
Maybe just your soul
It's not much to pay
It's not much at all
For a ride with me
Through the rabbit hole

Chorus

If you'll take a bite
From my bait, you might
Come with me Tonight
Through the rabbit hole
If you'll bite my bait
You could have it all
Now come down with me
Through the rabbit hole

10. Time Trip

How hard it was for me then to say my goodbyes. We were nervous and apprehensive, but we believed we could mend this world full of conflicts and filled with hate, and that we would find the salvation somewhere in outer space.

Verse I

Our world is full of conflicts
Our world is filled with hate
I once thought we could mend it
I fear we are too late

Verse II

I fear there is no future
For humankind on Earth
I hope we'll find salvation
Somewhere in outer space

Chorus

I'm going on a time trip
I'm taking my guitar
I'll travel to the future
As much as I can, far
I'm leaving you behind me
It's hurting me so deep
I hope you'll understand why
You will not join my trip

Verse III

I'm writing down these words while
I'm on the launching pad
The time all swirls around me
But I am not that scared

Chorus

I'm going on a time trip

I'm taking my guitar

I'll travel to the future

As much as I can, far

I'm leaving you behind me

It's hurting me so much

I hope you'll understand why

You're not aboard this launch

Bridge

I know some'll say that leaving
Is but a cowardly act
That staying is believing
That brave men do whatever it takes
I surely hope that someone
Will find this manifest
I hope you will forgive me
I really tried my best

Chorus

I'm going on a time trip

I'm taking my guitar

I'll travel to the future

As much as I can, far

I hope a day will come when

You'll read and understand

I hope the time will heal you

That the time will make amends

11. Windows 95

As I begin to travel through time, I fly through moments that pass through me like a lucid dream. I remember and see vividly a time where I was lost, traveling alone, far from you and far from home, in a cold urban limbo. I am sure this is real, but it feels like a message.

Verse I

It was 2025
I was traveling alone
Took the long ride out of town
Far from you
And far from home

Verse II

Like a superhero dressed
All in crimson and indigo
I was scanning with my eyes
Everything that passed my window

Chorus

I was stunned from the world
That I saw through my window
All so old yet so new
So I had just to see more
All the hustle and the fuss
Passing outside my window
At the end
I got lost
In the cold urban limbo

Verse III

With acoustic old guitar
Walked the streets in endless roam
Searched for a guiding star
Under darkest skies of storm

Verse IV

Since I had no single clue
How to speak the local lingo
I was bound to be outcast
Like a traveling nomad weirdo

Chorus

All the luxury shops
All the fancy stretched limos
Full of magic and charm
But I just wished to be home
All the hustle and the fuss
All the lightbulbs' lit windows
I got lost
I was lost
In the cold urban limbo

Bridge

On the streets we're all the same
Nameless faces with no aim
Playing in this ruthless game
Honour free discharged of shame
I went thirty years ago
Yet I feel like moments passed
Since that day in which my dream
Shattered like a window's glass

Chorus

All my hopes and my dreams
Like a smashed broken window
All the things I have longed
I just wished to go back home
To the future I lost
To my lost loved grass widow
I got lost
I'm so lost
In this odd time trip limbo

Outro

So I started to walk
Marched alone to the unknown
I was lost
Now I found
Found a way to get back home

12. Sometimes

The time travel pulls me back to moments that were dear and meaningful, simple moments like walking past your childhood home. I miss you and I ache to see your face and hear your voice again.

Verse I

And sometimes as I walk along These streets that near your childhood home
I think of all those times we spent
Those days and endless nights we had

Chorus

I miss you and I'm missing us
I missed those years that went so fast
I know I've lost you long ago
I wish I've known what now I know

Verse II

And once again I get the thrills
Remembering how I used to feel
When we were kids and when we roamed
The town that was our world wide home

Chorus

I miss you and I'm missing us
I missed those years that went so fast

I know I've lost you long ago

I wish I've known what now I know

Bridge

And sometimes when I think of us
The time we've missed the years that passed
I know that what we had is gone
I fear to be forever lone

Chorus

I miss you and I'm missing us
I missed those years that went so fast
I know I've lost you long ago
I wish I've known what now I know

Chorus

I miss you and I'm missing us
I missed those years that went so fast
I know I've lost you long ago
I wish I've known what now I know

13. Here Comes the Flood again

I see images and flashes of a future Armageddon, of biblical floods consuming the world. A world crashing down, too late to make amends on a destiny already set.

Verse I
Heavy rain
Comes again
It's pouring long and hard
The rain just never seems to stall
Just keeps to fall

Verse II
And the winds
Storming up
The ground is almost gone
The rain just never stops at all
Just keeps to fall

Pre Chorus
Now it's just too late
Destiny is set
There is no turning back
From all the networks' fake

Chorus
We saw the king
Was bare and nude
But we really liked his tan
We cannot stop
Or hold the rain
Oh no
Here comes the flood again
We cannot stop
Or hold the rain
Hell no
Here comes the flood again

Verse III
We all knew
We must pay
For all the wrongs we've done
The fire never seems to stop
It won't calm down

Pre Chorus

Now it is too late
Destiny is set
No one can make a mend
We're heading to the end

Chorus
We saw the king
Was bare and nude
But we really liked his tan
We cannot stop
Or hold the rain
Oh no
Here comes the flood again
We cannot stop
Or hold the rain
Hell no
Here comes the flood again

Bridge
Now it's just too late
We lost all our faith
Our world is crushing down
We've burned it to the ground

Chorus
We saw the king
Was bare and nude
But we really liked his tan
We cannot stop
Or hold the rain
Oh no
Here comes the flood again
We cannot stop
Or hold the rain
Hell no
Here comes the flood again

Chorus
We saw the king
Was bare and nude
But we really liked his tan

The Journal – initial ramblings. Very much work in progress.

We cannot stop
Or hold the rain
Oh no
Here comes the flood again

We cannot stop
Or hold the rain
Hell no
Here comes the flood again

14. No one knows what is really coming

The time images are beginning to confuse me I cannot discern what is a dream or real. I am beginning to fear something is going wrong. No one knows how life will unfold and no one knows what's coming.

Will I ever get to feel
While my heart is beating still
And my blood not yet been chilled
One more love, one new thrill

Verse II

Will I ever get to see How my children grow to be
Blooming branches in my tree
Bearing fruits of family

Chorus

No one has been promised something
No one knows how life unfolds
No one really knows what's coming
No one has been told
No one has been told

Verse III

Will I ever stop to fear
Losing all I hold so dear
Could I cease from shedding tears
Knowing that the end is near

Verse IV

If I'll ever get to Choose
I would rather die than lose
All the Memories I have
All the moments I have saved

Chorus

No one has been promised something
No one knows how life unfolds
No one really knows what's coming
No one has been told
No one has been told

Bridge

Life is short
That's what people say
You must live it strong
Each and every day
No one has been told
What the future holds
No one has been told
No one has been told

Chorus

No one has been promised something
No one knows how life unfolds
No one really knows what's coming
No one has been told
No one has been told

Chorus

No one has been promised something
No one knows how life unfolds
No one really knows what's coming
No one has been told
No one has been told

15. Time is Mean

There are so many things I wish to say, but I fear I am doomed by dear and these words can never reach your ears

Verse I
So many things
I wish to say
But you are far
So far away
To endless hush
I'm doomed, my dear
My words could never Reach your ears

Chorus
The time is mean
It has no heart
It took my soul
And ripped apart
The time is evil cruel and fell
It didn't treat us
All that well

Verse II
My unsaid words

That have no sound
Are like an airbag
In my lungs
The boots of time
Will crush them down
The time Surrenders
To no one

Chorus
The time is mean
It has no soul
It lends no hand
And lets you fall
And pain inflicts
In every click
In each and every
Tick time ticks

Bridge
The time is using Loaded dice
It's playing catch

With us as mice
Like unseen trees
Though high and tall
No one can hear us
Once we fall

Chorus
The time is mean
It has no soul
It lends no hand
And lets you fall
And pain inflicts
In every click
In each and every
Tick time ticks

Outro
The time will hit
And hurt you bad
It will not stop
Until you're dead

16. Cheating Time

Time cannot be beaten I know, I now know I cannot cheat time. I try and escape its hold and float into delusions, fantasies, hope and trances, but there is no escape, there is no cheating time.

Verse I

Every single day is an enigma
Never knowing how it's going to end
Every day I fight away my fears and Every day I try to make amends

Every single man could be a rival
Every single malt's my only friend
Every single moment makes me wonder
Will it be the last I'll get to spend

Chorus

Death awaits me
Dark and fell
Will it get me
Time will tell
Immanent
A paradigm
I am doomed
For cheating time

Verse III

Every single day I keep believing
That order lies within the mess
Every single lie I keep believe in Truly makes it harder to confess

Chorus

Death awaits me

Dark and fell
Will it get me
Time will tell
Immanent
A paradigm
I am doomed
For cheating time

Bridge

Every single day that I am breathing
Leaving trails of rubbles and distress
Every single day the grin is grimmer
On the reapers face, I'm cheating death
Every single day is a dilemma
Every single day is one more test
Every single day I fear the reaper
Reach me, catch me, cut me to the chase

Chorus

Death awaits me
Dark and fell
Will it get me
Time will tell
Immanent
A paradigm
I am doomed
For cheating time

17. The Sun Won't Shine in Outer Space

The outer space at first appears tranquil and heavenly, and that anything is possible. I felt elated floating here, and free from all cares. Dare I say it but almost angelic. But it didn't take long for its vast emptiness and coldness to feel oppressive, and yet hollow. An endless void the seeps into your very soul.

Verse I

It never rains in outer space
The winds won't bring you scents of summer
You cannot tell a night from day
You cannot tell one from the other

Verse II

The outer space is cold and dark
It has no borders and no structure
The outer space is like my soul
It's hollowed out forever after

Chorus

The sun won't shine in outer space
The sun won't give you endless powers
The sun won't heat your frozen heart
It just keeps raining solar showers

Verse III

Outside of time is where I roamed
In search of world it's birth I'd accoucheur
I tried to find my way back home
And to create a better future

Verse IV

Outside of time is where I went
In search for home to find a shelter
But all I found was endless void
Infinity of cold and darkness

Bridge

Yes all I found was endless void
Just endless void
Infinity of empty darkness
Infinity of pain and suffering
Yes all I found was endless void
Just endless void
Infinity of empty darkness
Infinity of pain and suffering

Chorus

The sun won't shine in outer space
The sun won't give you any powers
The sun won't heat your frozen heart
It just keeps raining solar showers

Chorus

The sun won't shine in outer space
The sun won't give you any powers
The sun won't heat your frozen heart
It just keeps raining solar showers

18. Just as Long as We Remember

No matter how hard it gets, and how insane I begin to feel I still take comfort and hold on to our love. And as long as I can remember us and as long as I can remember you I will have hope.

Verse I

As I live in these dark ages
Under sunless, starless skies
I remember what you told me
Long before you said good bye

Verse II

As I live in these dark ages
As I sink these moving sands
I remember what you told me
Long before our very end

Chorus

Just as long as I remember
You are never truly gone
And those memories won't hurt me
They'll just keep me whole and strong

V III

As I walk these darkening paths under lonely darkening skies

I remember what you told me
And I kind of figured why

Bridge

Just as long as you're remembered
You are never really gone
And those memories won't hurt me
They'll just keep me whole and strong

Chorus

Just as long as we're remembered
We are never really gone
And those memories won't hurt us
They'll just keep us whole and strong

Chorus

Just as long as we're remembered
We are never really gone
And those memories won't hurt us
They'll just keep us whole and strong

The Journal – initial ramblings. Very much work in progress.

19. Still I believe

I have to believe it was worth a try.

Verse I

If I could look at the future
What would I see
Would it be joy and laughter
Or only death and debris

Pre Chorus

The time is my bitter rival
The time is my foe
My death has a time of arrival
And the time never slows

Chorus

I've surfed on the ripples of time and
I've plunge to the past
I hoped I could change the tomorrow
But my hopes didn't last
I know now there isn't a future
In which we'll both get to live
I know there is no point in dreaming
But still, I believe

Verse II

If I could see the tomorrow
What would I see
Would it be grief and sorrow
Or would it be glee

Bridge

I've surfed on the waves of the time and
I've plunged in the past
I hoped I could change the future
I tried, but alas
I know now there's no real tomorrow
In which I'll meet you again
I feel there is no point in living
While I'm drowning in pains

Pre Chorus

The time is my bitter rival

The time's not my friend
My death has a time of arrival
And the time never bends

Chorus

I've surfed on the surges of the time and I got lost in the past
I hope that my bottle will reach you
That my message gets passed
I know that there is no real reason
To hope you'll ever forgive
I know that there's no point in hoping
But still, I believe

20. Epilogue

Verse 1

Some days are brighter days
And some the darkness will fall
Some days are longer days
Some never happened at all

Chorus

And I think of you
I hear your voice
And it warms me up
But I know
I have no choice
But to carry on

Verse 2

I chased all my dreams
Down a rabbit hole
And woke up somewhere
Out of time
Floating and alone

Verse 3

No one knows what's coming now
No one has been told
I just know you're not around
And I'm so lonely and cold

Verse 4

Time is such a bitter bitch
She is such a foe

She is mean and has no heart
She took away my soul

Chorus

And I think of you
I see your face
And it warms me up
But I know it's all too much
But I can't stop
(Missing you, missing us)

Bridge

And time, oh after time
I was wasting time
Warned out of my harsh
And bitter end

Now it's just too late
Our destiny is set
And there is no turning back
For us no more

Outro Verse

Time is no one's slave
She will never bend
Time is not my friend
She's just my endless end...
When every day I die

21. Original Gal Story board

Our story begins in present time.

In the present, our hero is a guy aged somewhere between his mid thirties and mid forties. A good guy, with high morals and great expectations.

In his early twenties he enlisted to a government agency of time travelers, whose main activity included sending secret agents back in time, in order to experience history firsthand and learn from past mistakes, but without trying to change anything.

Our hero was frustrated that he is banned from trying to prevent disasters and wars before they occur so he leaves the government agency and decides to build his own time machine, that will allow him to create a better future for humanity.

He drags his loving and devoted wife to a rural deserted ghost town, where he assembles a physics lab, and attempts to build his very own private time machine.

After He fails a few times, and when he is on the verge of a breakthrough (which he is unaware of at that time). He is unexpectedly encountered with a wondering nomad, that somehow stumbles into that godforsaken time lab.

The mysterious stranger, called by the name "Mr. White" (a rather suitable name for a "time demon" of his sort) Doesn't want our hero to go back in time and prevent bad things from happening. So, Mr. White presents our hero with a seemingly most irresistible offering, tempting him to use a "time machine" Mr. White has "created" called the "rabbit hole".

Our hero foolishly accepts the offer, considering it (gullible), as a "free lunch". Alas! We all know there are no free lunches, and this one will soon to be determined as no exception. After our hero launches himself into the past, using "The Rabbit hole", he gets imprisoned within a devilish time loop, where he can't change history (hence his character's name "The Timewaster"), and what's even worse, he can't return to his point of origin in the time continuum where (and when) his deserted heartbroken spouse is waiting for him (hence, "The Grass Widow").

The Timewaster & The Grass Widow combined songs list (pending France's approval of course)
